Corbion is dedicated to adhering to all applicable laws and regulations. Our advocacy and public affairs activities align with the Paris Agreement, the Kunming-Montreal Global Biodiversity Framework, and our commitments to UN Global Compact, RE100, and the Science Based Target initiative.

As a purpose-driven organization, our public affairs efforts focus on engaging with regulators and policymakers to demonstrate the viability of sustainable business models. We actively collaborate with like-minded organizations to advocate for regulatory conditions that support sustainable frontrunners. Corbion pro-actively advocates for sustainable business practices aligned with its strategy in all the industry associations we are a member of. If there is significant misalignment between the industry associations position on a dossier that is relevant for Corbion, we will try to bring this position more in line with our objectives. If this turns out not to be feasible we either veto the position or make sure that it is clear that the position is not supported by Corbion.

To ensure that all lobbying activities align with our corporate values and long-term interests, Corbion has established a Public Affairs (PA) Committee. This committee is responsible for reviewing and approving our advocacy initiatives. We strictly avoid any activities that could be perceived as unethical, ensuring that they reflect our commitment to sustainability, integrity, transparency and responsible business as laid out in our Code of Business Conduct that is published on the Corbion website. Corbion does not make political contributions in any form, ensuring that our advocacy efforts remain focused on policy engagement that aligns with our sustainability goals and corporate values.

Our goal is to create an enabling environment that encourages businesses to adopt sustainable practices and contribute to a greener, more inclusive economy.
